About

Tempranillo and Touriga Nacional are indigenous to the Iberian Peninsula and are the most famous red grape varieties of Spain and Portugal respectively. Tempranillo is also grown in Portugal where it is known as Tinta Roriz, and traditionally blended with Touriga Nacional and other indigenous varieties. Whilst Tempranillo is now well known, Touriga Nacional may be new to many wine drinkers and in need of further introduction. It's a lusty red variety that produces medium-bodied yet powerful wines with pungent fruit characteristics of fruit-mince or plum pudding. It blends well with the red fruit, earth and cocoa of Tempranillo and may just be the variety and wine for our times. The climatic suitability to the South Australian wine growing region is unquestionable in both of these varieties, resulting in increased sustainability and wines with great natural balance, complexity and flavor. The 2021 vintage was promising with strong growth, no disease pressure, and plentiful, perfectly ripe fruit, though labor shortages and a drawn-out harvest well into May tested patience.

The grapes were hand-harvested, crushed, and vinified separately in small open top fermenters with daily pumpovers. Post-primary fermentation, the grapes are pressed directly to a 9850-liter vat. After nine months of aging, the wine was bottled with a gentle cross-flow filtration and a small dosage of sulfur. No fining.

Tasting Note

A bold, spirited clash of Tempranillo and Touriga Nacional, bursting with cherries, citrus, warm spices, and rich Australian kitchen aromas—a true festival in a glass.
