About

In late 2019 the Somos boys knew the days of the Carignan-Cinsault/Mazuelo-Cinsault were drawing to an end. What could replace that delightful, vibrant crunchy wine? They got a lead on a relatively new planting of the Galician red variety Mencía, tucked away in a little valley in the Adelaide Hills. It has been dry-farmed/organically farmed since it was planted and now really starting to show its personality. Ben & Mauricio have nicknamed this wine the 'The Iberian Lynx' in order to differentiate it from the previous 'Lynx' label. This is one of Australia's best examples of the grape.

The fruit was hand-harvested and placed into a number of small picking bin ferments, some with tons of whole-bunches, some without. Some bins were pressed early, and others were left on the skins for a bit longer. Each one was pressed separately and into 2-4th fill Burgundian French oak for close to a year. Trying to follow the canons in Ribeira Sacra where this variety has restraint and poise to the point of the sublime, this is a really delicate, floral, bunchy expression.

Tasting Note

Fresh, bouncy, and just the perfect amount of crispy. Cranberry, pomegranate, and blood orange emerge with a thyme lemonade note. The palate is refreshing and penetrating with plenty of zing and elevation.
