About

Bloedlemoen (meaning blood orange, pronounced 'Blue'd Le Moon') is a handcrafted, small batch project that is the first blood orange gin in the world. It was conceptualized in 2015 by three food and drinks industry specialists focused on bringing to life a liquid that is refreshing and delicious, yet layered with the warmth of selected spices. It's a contemporary, London Dry-style Gin distilled through a combination of maceration and vapor infusion, and it contains no less than ten natural botanicals: juniper, blood orange, orange peel, grains of paradise, coriander, cassia, nutmeg, licorice root, angelica root and nutmeg.

Tasting Note

A classic London Dry style, the nose is led by distinctive citrus notes, supported by light juniper and spicy floral nuances. Enjoy it neat, on the rocks, or with a curl of orange zest and tonic.
