

THORNE & DAUGHTERS

Botrivier - South Africa

Background

Thorne and Daughters Wines, founded in 2012 by John and Tasha Seccombe in the Western Cape, is known for producing some of South Africa's best white wines. "Raising our handcrafted wines along with our two daughters," is their motto, and it underscores their slow and steady commitment to perfecting their craft and premiumizing the category. It also nods to their choice to name their wines after children's toys. John is a master blender, evidenced by his white Rocking Horse and red Wanderer's Heart blends, two of South Africa's best values on the market today. The wines in his single-vineyard, varietal range ('Snakes & Ladders' Sauvignon Blanc, 'Cat's Cradle' Chenin Blanc, 'Paper Kite' Sémillon Blanc, & 'Tin Soldier' Sémillon Gris) are exacting and full of character, with a focus on old-vine sites. John's ability to hone a consistent, textured profile across his wines while reflecting the site is marvelous. Thorne & Daughters perfectly tells the story of a once-and-future South Africa: old vineyards, old-school simplicity, and modern precision.

Highlights

- 1 Thorne & Daughters, led by winemaker John Seccombe, is one of South Africa's best white wine producers.
- 2 The wines (two blends and four single-vineyard, varietal wines) come from all over the Western Cape.
- 3 John's calling card is texture, and he has a penchant for 'forgotten' varieties like Clairette Blanche and Sémillon.

Wines

Western Cape Blends SRP $25

Rocking Horse is a layered, complex, barrel-aged white, and Wanderer's Heart is a Syrah-dominant, partial-whole cluster red blend. Amazing value!

Single Vineyard, Varietal Range SRP $40

This range consists of a Chenin Blanc, Sémillon Blanc, Sémillon Gris, and Sauvignon Blanc that are all aged in used oak barrels. Great tension and texture.
